1 MS. JOANNE DAWN: Actually, I just happen to live here and my name is Joanne Dawn, and I'm representing some of the -- the people that live in this valley, and we don't want high-level nuclear waste here in Pahrump. We don't want it. We don't want it at the test site. There's a lot of people that don't want this -- this waste, and I don't know why there aren't more people, but I think they're all discouraged.

2 And one of the other things that I'm discouraged about is the millirems. I heard that the -- that the millirems -- they wanted to change the millirems in the water, and I just think that's a terrible thing to do. It's bad enough that we allow 4 millirems. We don't need 25 millirems, and I think that that should go on the record that we don't want that in our water and we don't want -- the things that are -- what's the best way for me to explain this?

We don't want more leeway in our water and our air and everything else. I don't know why they decided to pick, you know, our particular area, but there are people that live here, and -- and I have been told that a person in the DOE make -- was making a map and didn't even put Pahrump on there, and there's like 30,000 people here, and we just don't want it here, and I'll go on the record as saying that.
